The Intelligencer.

CAMPBELL & M'DERMOT, EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOV.43. WE were glad to receive a momentary call from our old friend L. H. Hagars, Esq., as he passed through the city last evening en route from his old home in Preston county to his new home near Chicago, Our citizens, generally, will remember him as Secretary of the Commonwealth for the restored government of Virginia. He was universally respected in our midst for his capacity as an officer and his high integrity of character.

WE have once more upon our table the ancient Richmond Enquirer, at one time the most notable political sheet, not excepting the National Intelligencer, in this country. The new paper re sembles the old very closely, save in the present amplitude of its columns, its better typography, and its more modernized make-up. The old heading is there, however, and so is the inevitable capitol building, and the white flag of Virginia still flies from the front gable, while the stars and stripes remain at the rear. We miss the old familiar names of "Tyler, Wise & Allegree," and in their stead we read simply Tyler & Coleman." We all know what became of poor Jennings Wise.

We are rather pleased with this initial number of the Enquirer. An evident ambition is manifested to court and regain an ancient prestige. We hope, howver, that a future very different from its past awaits it, save as respects its material prosperity. We never could wish well to its old pernicious and destructive legresies. We can only hope that the Enquirer in the days to come will be as potential for good, as we conceived it was in days past potential for this may be done by the same bag, applied in the same way." sulutatory to be the indication of a very different career:

That great cause at whose cradio we sat, and whose hearse we followed, has gone down forever; its great issues are dead, and its principles forever lost. However tender and dear may be its memories, we shall not seek to revive its issues or reminate its hopes. We shall turn our attention and devote all our energies to the living present, and exactivor to exercise some influence for good to our people and State in the uncertain future.

MR. McPHERSON, the Clerk of the House, in making up the roll of members, is compelled to conform to the fol- minishing. lowing act, passed in March, 1863:

That before the first meeting of the next Congress, and of every subsequent Congress, the Clerk of the next preceding House of Representatives shall make a roll of the Representatives the cleet, and place thereon the names of revenue laws so for as their interests.

He construes his duty to be to place no name of Representatives from late rebel States upon the roll, for the following reasons:

First, That no law of the United States authorizes the election of Representatives in any of the insurrectionary

Second, That no law of any of the States authorizes an election held at the call of a Provisional Governor, and from which large numbers of legally

The Methodists are inaugurating measures for the celebration of the centennial anniversary of American Methodism, which occurs in the early part of the coming year, although the American Methodist Episcopal Church, as a separate and distinct organization, did not exist until Christmas day, 1784, when at a conference, called for the purpose at Baltimore, the preachers assembled and assumed the title of a church. FEVER AND AGUE has reappeared to an unprecedented extent in that section of the country known as "Tide Water," Virginia. The people are everywhere shaking, and the mortality is largely increasing. The cause of the disease is attributed to the loss of labor by the civil war, which has left the rank vegetation to grow up untilled and uncheeked, and without proper drainage.

Blind Tom, the Wonderful Musician Has His Head Examined in New

"That the nausea, vomiting, copious discharge of the well-knnown 'rice-water' stools, cold sweat and peculiar odor from the body, are due to the combined action of the hyperemic spinal cord and sympathetic nervous centers, in the same manner as they induce phenomena of the like kind, though less in degree, in cases of summer diarrhea, and of sea sickness when it is accompanied with diarrhoa.

The phrenologist merely found that Tom's head was a very good average in all the qualities that the disciples of Gail and Surzheim have ventured to catamake man a domestic animal and keep up thairemarkable institution known as the family; the perceptive and reasoning faculties were also found to be good; there was good time, good tune, good From the Herald of Wednesday there was good time, good tune, good language and good color, and that sense of the right relation of things which is called "order" was larger than the majority of heads. This fact throws some light on Tom's peculiarties, as it is doubtless owing to this development that the blind musicin is region."

After detailing the symptoms of two cases of cholera which fell under his observation, Dr. Chapman offers the following suggestions for the use of the limits that the blind musician is able to carry in his mind the relation of the parts in all the very complicated pieces of music that he so wonderfully remembers.

"1. The cold must be applied along only a narrow strip—not more than four inches broad in the adult—down the very centre of the back.

3. The lee-bag should be continued along the whole spine only until the cramps and algide symptoms have been subdued.

"4. The ice-bag should be continued along the lower half of the spine until younding and purging cease.

"5. The patient should be assiduously watched, to guard, in the stage of reaction, against cerebral or pulmonary congestion, the development of which the long in the cervical and dorsal regions.

But it is sufficiently evident that there is a quite exceptional distribution of faculties in Tom, whatever phrenology may see or fail to see. He carries to nearly their opposite extremes the sensuous and intellectual natures. His senses are defective. His eyes are nearly useless, and he has an incomplete control of the organs of speech. His deficiencies are thus in the very group of organs with which the negro race is usually so well supplied. And with usually so well supplied. And with development of certain of the intel-lectual faculties, such, for instance, as memory. His memory—his power to retain impressions, especially of musi-cal sounds—is not less than wonderful; and his exhibition of this power in the facility with which he repeats perfor-mances on the piano when once heard mances on the piano when one mances on the piano when once heard is what gives its greatest interest to his seances. But his strange sensitiveness to music—his nervous irritability, that renders it impossible for him to keep himself still while any one plays, and the remarkable muscular antics that are the result of this, will always make him a great curiosity to the public.

The physiological explanation of this musical wonder probably is, that there was in early life some accident inside the cranium—some event not sufficient to destroy life, but to arrest the development at the base of the brain; and this arrested development was compensated by some vagaries of development in the cerebral hemisphere.

Horace Greeley's Opinion about West

Point and other Military Schools. Mr. Horace Greeley, in his late ad-ress in Chicago, thus referred to West Point:

"I am not a friend of our national military academy at West Point. I am a disbeliever however excellent, the privilege of officering our armies. I believe we should have not one such, but a hundred, in this country. I believe that every seminary should have its instruction in military drill, and every university its course of instruction in military tactics. And when officers are wanted for the army, I believe there should be the freest competition; and the question be, not 'Where did he learn?' but 'What does he know?' [Cheers.] But when I have said all this, I maintain that to-day West Point is the best practical school in this country. If I had a child in whom I took an interest, and was offered education for him where I chose, I would say give me West Point; merely because West Point is an institution where the pupil is trained with direct reference to practical things. What is taught there includes health, muscular physical activity, and a knowledge of what is necessary to be known. I say, without reference to military affairs, I believe West Point, which I do not like, is the best practical school for boys in this country to-day."

We agree with Mr. Greely in his opinion about the multiplestic.

lie aim, however, to make all their schools as good as West Point. Until they do that, we say, sustain West Point, for its productions have shed immortality on the American name.

INFALLIBLE HAIR RESTORATIVE!

This is no Hair Dye.

This is no Hair Dye.

The IMMENSE SUCCESS WITH WHICH this Preparation has met during the short time it has been before the public, has induced the thousands and tens of thousand, who have used and attested its virtues, to pronounce it the ONLY and TRUE Hair Restor ative. The Eureka has been introduced into all the principal cities both East and West, and having faithfully performed all that is claimed for it, has superseded all other Hair Preparations. The Eureka restores Gray Hait to its original color; prevents the hair from falling out, by causing a healthy condition of the scalp, imparting to the hair a softness, and gloss, and youthful appearance that no other Hair Preparation can produce. The Eureka test free from all impurities of poisonous drugs, and can be used without soiling scalpor hands.
